FEDERAL TROOPS FORCE INTEGRATION

Agreement Is Reached By Conservancy District Group

An agreement was reached last night in Benton between directors of the East Fork Clark's River Conservancy District and the directors of the West Fork Clark's River Conservancy District which will speed work on the two projects.

C. D. Luttrell, on loan from the government by the state, told the group that both projects on the Clark's River would be done and gave the group some reasons why it was more feasible to work on the East Fork first.

The work, amounting to about $15,000,000 dollars, will result in harnessing the Clark's River and holding the rainfall, rather than the river flooding periodically.

Reservoir will be constructed in strategic spots on the river which will hold the overflow.

The resolution adopted last night and signed by the directors of the two Conservancy Districts is as follows:

Whereas, at a joint meeting of the East Fork Clark's River Conservancy District and the West Fork Clark's River Conservancy District, this day held in Benton, Kentucky for the purpose of hearing a report of Mr. C. D. Luttrell, Field Man, Division of Flood Control, Department of Conservation, and,

Whereas, the directors and officers of both Conservancy Districts are desirous of doing the best good for the most people in their respective districts, and,

Whereas, it is impossible for work to be started in both districts at the same time, and,

Whereas, Mr. C. D. Luttrell stated at his department has made a thorough study of the work needed in both districts, and that both districts should be improved by and through Flood and Erosion Control programs under the Watershed Control Act passed by the Congress of the United States and by the General Assembly of Kentucky, but that in his opinion work should be started first on the East Fork of Clark's River and thereafter as soon as possible on the West Fork of Clark's River,

THEREFORE, be it resolved by the unanimous vote of all the Directors of both the East Fork Clark's River Conservancy District and the West Fork Clark's River Conservancy District that the Division of Flood Control and such other agency or agencies that may be interested that the of Clark's River under said Flood first project for the improvement and Erosion Control be the East Fork of Clark's River and that as soon thereafter as possible work be commenced on a similar project for the West Fork of Clark's River.

Done by unanimous consent of all of the Directors of both of said Conservancy Districts, on this the 24th day of September, 1957.

(Signed) L. D. Miller
Chairman, East Fork Clark's River Conservancy District.

(Signed) Robert Heath
Chairman, West Fork Clark's River Conservancy District.

Governor Dorich commented on the reports favorably and pointed out the strong points and the weak points of the club.

Today he will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Murray Rotary Club at the Woman's Club House.

John Quettermous is president of the club.

Stove Plant To Tie Onto Gas System

An expected change in the heating system at the Murray Manufacturing Company will result in a landfill for the Murray Natural Gas System, according to reports today from Jack Bryan, superintendent of the system.

The present boiler of the stove plant will be converted to gas and another boiler will also be added bringing the capacity of the two boilers to 500 horsepower.

The change will be done at a cost of about $35,000 which will be gained back by the company over a period of ten years in operation savings.

Bryan said the stove plant, largest industry in the county, will use approximately $100,000 in gas each year.

The addition of this large customer to the gas system makes certain that the system will be able to meet all of its bond obligations.

The system does not have to pay on any bonds for another two years, however it will have to start paying interest on the bonds in October of 1958.

Enough has been saved by the system already to meet half of the first interest payment, in 1958 and Bryan said that if things continue as they are now, the company would be able to meet all of its obligations on schedule.

The addition of the stove plant, however, removes any doubt as to the financial standing of the gas system.

The bond issue was set up to be repaid in thirty years. Bryan said that he expected to pay off the bond issue in less than half that time, if the system continues to grow as fast as it is.

A new line will be laid to the stove plant to supply the needed amount of natural gas.

Hoffa Presses Bid For Teamster Post

MIAMI BEACH — James Hoffa's bid for the presidency of the Teamsters Union was attacked on four fronts today but the stock boss of Midwest truckers campaigned harder than ever to become Dave Beck's successor.

Gun Butts, Bayonets Used To Enforce Court Decree

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Army paratroopers today arrested a youthful Air Force officer, carrying a concealed revolver, on the sidewalk opposite newly-integrated Central High School.

The arrested man was picked up well inside the outer guard line set up by the paratroopers and within 100 yards of the school entrance. He was identified as 2nd Lt. Sidney Arnold Wolff, Miami, Fla.

He was arrested and disarmed about an hour after nine Negro students returned to Central High School under paratroop guard for the second day of integrated education.

Except for the excitement stirred by Wolff's arrest, all was calm in the long-turbulent school area. Fewer than 50 white bystanders gathered on the sidewalks where several hundred had stood or milled about Wednesday.

No Violent Incidents

There were no demonstrations, and no incidents of violence like those Wednesday in which one white man had his head bashed with a rifle butt and another his arm slashed with a bayonet for resisting move-on orders from the helmeted troops of the 101st Airborne Division.

Wolff had reached the sidewalk of Park Avenue, facing the main entrance of the school, when paratroopers became suspicious of him. They pounced on him when an inadvertent movement of his sun-lan summer officer's blouse revealed a glimpse of a 38 caliber revolver in a holster attached to his belt, beneath the blouse.

In a 1957 Chrysler 300 sedan which Wolff had parked nearby, a search party found a Winchester lever action carbine rifle.

Wolff, a clean-cut, brown-haired man who gave his age as 28, was taken to Little Rock Air Force Base in the custody of Air Police. Papers found on him showed that he was en route to duty with the 3700th Pre-flight group, Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. His car had Texas license plates.

Maj. Lewis T. Gaby, Air Force public information officer, said preliminary questioning disclosed that Wolff is a "newly commissioned" officer who graduated recently from the University of Florida. Asked why Wolff had gone armed to Central High, Gaby replied:

"It is a mystery to me, but it is certain that he was not on Air Force business."

Peaceful Morning

Reporters crowding toward the door of the room where Wolff was being questioned said he had his head down and seemed to be crying.

The brief excitement occasioned by Wolff's arrest was the only break in an otherwise peaceful morning at Central High.

The only real "crowds" in the area consisted of reporters and photographers. Within the three-block radius where paratroopers maintained a perimeter of federal authority, a cruising reporter found nothing remotely resembling a mob.

The largest single group composed of nine teen-age boys standing on a corner.

There were no demonstrations, not even shouts, as the Negro children drove up to the main entrance of the school in an Army station wagon, escorted before and behind by jeepsloads of troops.

Watch Silently

About 100 white students watched silently from the steps or the lawn as the Negroes walked into the building, preceded by two paratroopers and followed by three others. The white youths followed them inside, and the bell rang for classes to begin.

While the little convoy was en route to the school, Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus announced that he will address the nation tonight by radio and television to present his views on the use of federal armed force to integrate Central High.

Faubus said he will speak over the radio and television networks of the American Broadcasting Company at 10 p.m. e.d.t.

Troops found a rifle in the trunk of a 1957 Chrysler automobile which the man had driven to the school. The car bore a Texas license plate.

A tenth Negro student, Jane Hill, 15, who had been scheduled to attend Central High today, had to cancel her plans at the last minute because papers transferring her from all-Negro Horace (Continued On Page Three)

Lions Will Participate In Telethon

The Murray Lions Club is participating in a Telethon originating with WPSD-TV in Paducah, on Thursday evening, September 26 from 7:00 to 12:00 p.m.

The Telethon, which is being sponsored by the Paducah Lions Club, is to be a fund raising campaign for the West Kentucky Crippled Children's Center. Since the construction of the $100,000 Center in 1953, numerous people from Murray and Calloway County have availed themselves of its services.

The Murray Lions Club was asked to assist in this Telethon since the Crippled Children's Center serves the Calloway County area as well as Paducah and surrounding communities.

Donations may be made by calling Murray 682. This number will be manned by members of the club who will assist you in making your donations. At frequent intervals a call will be placed to Paducah and the names of the contributors will be televised.

Robert Hendon, chairman of the boys and girls committee which is responsible for the club's function on the project expressed hope for a fine response to this campaign inasmuch as it will be good publicity for Murray and Calloway County as well as a contribution to a good cause.

The governor's statement read as follows:

"This is a most distressing situation and like all good Americans I regret it more than I can say."

"I approve of the President's action in the Little Rock situation. Under the circumstances, there was no other choice left open to him."

"We must protect all our people from mob violence, and law and order must prevail in these United States. The majority of our people realize that mob rule and violence cannot be tolerated."

"I think our people understand that under the laws of our republic we must give equality of opportunity and protection to all our citizens, and I feel reasonably certain that God-fearing men and women who want to give advantages of liberty and freedom and the pursuit of happiness to all our people will feel that the President's action was, under the circumstances, proper."

Chandler Backs Use Of Troops

FRANKFORT — Gov. A. B. Chandler, Wednesday, issued a statement supporting President Eisenhower in his actions in the Little Rock school integration crisis.

"I approve of the President's action in the Little Rock situation. Under the circumstances, there was no other choice left open to him."

FISHING REPORT

Water condition: 76 degrees at surface, 72 at 30 foot, dingy. Remarks: Both day and night fishing continues good with striped bass catches being the top item. Black bass picking up and should reach its fall peak within the next two weeks.

With our warm nights continuing, a lot of fishermen are really passing up some top fishing by not going after them with gas lanterns around the bridge piers.

This has been a most unusual year for willow flies, heretofore after a few weeks of fly swarms, we didn't see any more until the following year. But this year we have had a few flies almost every night and even at this late date they are still coming in. We believe that his has a lot to do with good fishing for we know that all fish go nuts over willow flies, may flies, Canadian Soldiers or what ever you choose to call them.

Individual Catches
Cincinnati, Ohio — Mr. Ray Buckley, 14 fish (4 bass, 11 minnows).
Louisville, Ky. — Jim Marshall, 11 strippers, 1 1/2 to 3 lbs.
Cape Girardeau, Mo. — Mr. George Grandjean, 189, Munich, and Mrs. Dean Vandwin, 16 Germany (10).

Little To Say

Larsen Recovers As World Series Time Nears

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer
Don Larsen, super-hero of last year's World Series but a "forgotten man" this year, suddenly is keynoting the Yankees' pitching staff as it drives to reach a peak for next season's classic.

From the hysterical glory of his perfect game against the Dodgers last fall, the hulking Larsen faded far back into the shadows during the summer months as he was whacked time and again and exiled to the bullpen. But it's almost Series time again and Larsen is firing bullets.

The big fellow made his final pre-Series tune-up a dilly Wednesday night by fanning nine batters in seven innings to lead a 3-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. In the second game of the two-night double-header, the Orioles nipped an eased-up Whitey Ford, 4-2.

Shantz Gets "Practice"
Larsen's last effort was a 3-0 shutout, this time allowed just four hits in the seven frames he worked. Then manager Casey Stengel let Bobby Shantz get in two innings of "practice" in which he allowed one hit.

The defeat of Ford, his probable opening-game hurler in the Series, didn't worry Stengel much because his pitching is sharper now than it's been in a long time. For the final three games in Boston starting Friday, Stengel plans to work two hurlers per game — Bob Turley and Shantz Friday, Tom Sturdivant and Bob Grim Saturday, and Art Ditmar and Johnny Kucks Sunday. Then it's off until Wednesday when Ford probably will face the Braves.

THURSDAY — SEPTEMBER 26, 1957

Federal...

Mann High were not completed in time. Her admission to Central was ordered by Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies along with the nine others who already are attending classes.

Mrs. Bates said the principal of Horace Mann High School "hasn't finished making out the transfer papers" for Jane Hill, but expected to complete the paperwork today so she could enter Friday.

A United Press reporter trailed the convoy in a car equipped with a mobile radio-telephone. He saw only small groups of spectators on street corners near the school. None shouted or made any demonstration as the convoy passed.

The station wagon pulled up at the entrance of the school at 8:35 a.m. The children climbed out.

They walked down the sidewalk, with two soldiers preceding them and three walking behind them, and went up the steps into the front door of the school.

About 100 white students stood on the school steps and grounds watching them enter.

The white students entered the building after the Negroes were inside.

The Airborne Division paratroopers yielded their posts temporarily to a unit of National Guardsmen but returned early today to maintain their iron grip around forcibly-integrated Central High.

Native sons of Arkansas relieved the paratroopers in a routine change of guard and remained on duty throughout the quiet night.

But at dawn the paratroopers, who used bayonets and rifle butts to prevent mobs from blocking integration Wednesday, returned and relieved the militiamen.

The guardsmen were not the troops who only a week ago barred Negroes from the school on orders of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Faubus said he will address the nation tonight on a nationwide radio-television hookup but his announcement did not say which network would carry his speech.

While troops fought mobs on Wednesday, the climate inside the school where nine Negro children attended classes was warm. Because of the friendliness shown to the new arrivals, a 10th Negro student announced "she would start classes at Central today."

The 10th Negro is Jane Hill, 15. Federal courts approved the entry of 10 Negroes into Central High this year, but she could not attend Wednesday with nine others because her transfer from another school was not completed.

When the militia took over guard duty at Central Wednesday night, about 500 troops marched to the Central football building and bedded down in pup tents after close-order drill.

No Little Rock troops were among the Guardsmen at Central. Faubus used two companies of Little Rock troops for 18 days at the start of Central's school term to keep Negroes out.

Faubus Going On TV
Faubus, who returned to Little Rock from the southern governors' conference in Georgia, because he supposed his presence would have a "quieting effect," announced that he will make a television and radio report "to my people and the nation" tonight. He did not announce the time.

President Eisenhower snubbed Faubus in agreeing to meet next week with a committee of southern governors who want him to withdraw federal troops from Arkansas at the earliest possible moment.

The nine Negroes were taken to school Wednesday in an Army station wagon with a jeepload of troops in front of it and another jeepload behind.

The same convoy returned them after school was dismissed to the home of Mrs. Lucius C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the NAACP.

There their parents picked them up, chattering about their first day in a previously all-white school and took them home. An Army officer made plans with Mrs. Bates to pick them up at her home and take them to school today.

Students Eat Together
The Negroes said they ate with white students. One girl said she was standing in line in the cafeteria and a white girl came up to her and asked her to come over to their table.

1,500,000-man union which controls just about everything in this country which rolls on wheels.

The AFL-CIO issued an ultimatum to the Teamsters to get rid of Hoffa and other allegedly corrupt leaders in 30 days or face expulsion.

A federal grand jury indicted Hoffa on five perjury charges for allegedly lying about a wire-tapping incident in Detroit.

A Senate Rackets Committee witness said Hoffa used union funds to aid a Teamster official who was convicted of accepting payoffs. Hoffa was expected to be called before the committee next week.

A candidate opposing Hoffa for the Teamsters presidency succeeded, after charging Hoffa with trying to conspire to fix the election, in getting the delegate list opened to him.

The quick-paced events apparently caught Hoffa off guard and he issued a brash "no comment" to the charges. He refused to talk with reporters but continued to buttonhole delegates to the Teamsters national convention opening here Monday.

"They even walked behind the colored kids when they moved between classes," he said.

COLLEGE ADMITS NEGROES

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — The University of North Carolina director of admissions announced a total of 13 Negroes are enrolled at the school for the coming year. Six of them are new to the campus and seven have attended in the past. About 6,000 students are enrolled at the university.

Cases Of Asian Flu Climbs

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Here's the latest communique on Asian flu: 1. The number of cases in the United States is climbing. The U. S. Public Health Service, which put the total at 50,000 last week, now estimates "at least 65,000" cases. Officials said, however, that part of the apparent increase may represent improved reporting procedures.

2. There is no sign yet that the disease has begun to spread with the prairie-fire speed of a true national epidemic. Outbreaks have been reported in 37 states, but all have remained localized. The biggest local epidemic, in Louisiana, apparently is leveling off.

3. Vaccine production is running somewhat behind schedule. Drug manufacturers originally hoped to turn out eight million shots by Sept. 15. Only 5,430,442 shots actually were released for military and civilian use by Sept. 12. A new batch, which will go out this week, will bring the total to about seven million.

4. Asian flu continues to be a comparatively mild disease for most victims. Twelve deaths have been reported among 65,000 cases—a death rate of two-one-hundredths of one per cent. There is no evidence that the disease is growing in virulence like the great flu epidemic of 1918 which caused an estimated 850,000 deaths in the United States.

At Public Health Service headquarters, where daily reports from every part of the country are plotted on huge charts, epidemic experts are watching closely for the first sign that isolated outbreaks of flu have begun to merge into a great wave of contagion.

On the basis of U. S. experience with the past flu epidemics, and on the experience of other nations with Asian flu, it is considered probable that such a wave will materialize sometime between now and the end of winter.

But flu is so unpredictable that no epidemiologist will hazard a guess when the epidemic may "begin to roll."

One likely date — the reopening of schools across the nation — has already passed. Dr. Carl C. Dauer, influenza control officer of the Public Health Service, said the return of 40 million children and college students to classrooms apparently had "no appreciable effect" on the rate at which the disease is spreading.

Other authorities pointed out that most of the nation is still enjoying comparatively mild weather. The first real cold snap, which causes people to move indoors and close the windows, could be the event that triggers an epidemic.

The longer it is in coming, the better prepared the nation will be. Vaccine production is due to rise sharply during October. If drug companies are to meet their goal of 80 million shots by Jan. 1, they will have to turn out as much each week after Oct. 1 as the total supply released to date.

Priority groups—doctors, nurses, hospital workers, elderly people with chronic disease, and workers who perform "essential" community services—already are getting their vaccinations in most communities.

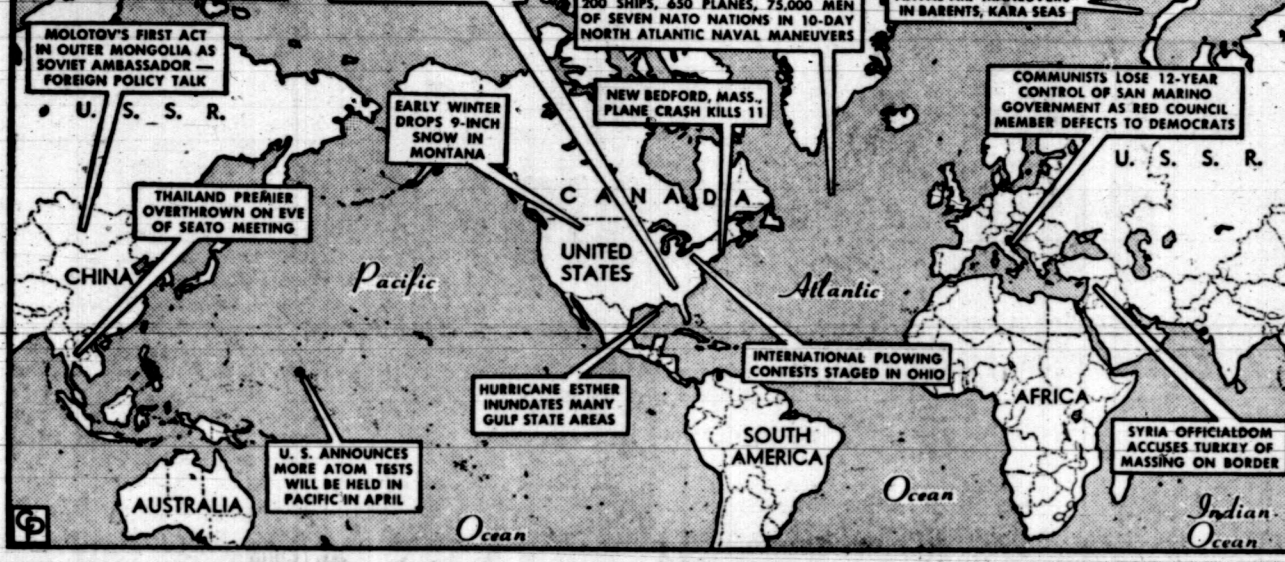

After the priority groups are inoculated, vaccine will be available to the general public on a first come, first served basis.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A PRIVACY SCREEN

Lack of privacy when relaxing in the backyard is a problem for many home owners. A privacy screen is the answer. Make the post holes 7 feet 9 inches apart on centers. Dig the holes 34 inches deep and fill the bottom 2 inches with gravel.

The 10-foot posts are made of 4 by 4-inch lumber. Use naturally durable wood or treated wood. Bore the top of the posts. The screen is made of 1 by 12 (or 1 by 10), 1 by 6, and 2 by 4-inch lumber. The slats are 84 inches long; the 1 by 6-inch top is 21 1/2 inches; and the 2 by 4-inch braces are 87 1/2 inches. Draw diagonal lines on the ends of the braces to locate the center point for the screw eyes.

Assemble the screen section as shown using 6-penny rust-proof nails. Space the slats evenly. Set the posts in concrete. Fasten the hooks to the posts. Join the sections to the posts. Additional sections may be easily removed.

CHAPTER 16

THE MORNING, Deborah and Joyce set out to go shopping. Deborah's car. They took the highway and went to the store. She was left for an hour or two with a friend and neighbor. She also was a mother, had offered the accommodation under the detour that two babies would not be a bit more trouble than one. "She'll learn," said Joyce. Backing out of the drive, Deborah noticed Scobie's hand cutting the grass. Although well aware of their passing, he did not offer even a grudge. "Good morning," he kept his face bent over the lawn-mower. Before they had gone far, Joyce exclaimed that she had forgotten a library book she had promised to exchange for Evan. Since it would be a bother turning the car in the narrow street, Deborah parked it at the curb, hopped out quickly and walked back. On nearing the house it struck her that Scobie's grass cutting had ceased. The mower stood idle in the middle of the lawn. Scobie was nowhere in sight. Entering the house quietly, Deborah saw at once that the living-room door, left shut, now stood ajar. For once it would have been reassuring to have Inspector Gray within call; but he had been away and gone about his official duties. Mustering all her courage, she crept to the slightly open door and pushed it wider. She breathed easier when she saw that the room was untenanted. She wondered what she would have done if she had surprised Scobie in the act of rifling Evan's desk. Screamed and run, probably, if her legs would carry her. Listening intently, she heard a faint movement from the direction of the kitchen. Tiptoeing along the passage, she peered in but no one was there. Beginning to think she had alarmed herself over nothing, she noticed that the door to the basement was open. Stealing across the smooth linoleum, she halted breathlessly at the head of the basement stairs. A patch of light from a window gave her a distinct view of Scobie. He was kneeling on the floor, stooping with the effort to concentrate, clipping small bits out of old newspapers which were scattered all round him. He had borrowed the shears and paste-pot from Evan's desk and was pasting printed words on to a sheet of foolscap. Deborah drew back to an angle from which she could glimpse Scobie without herself being seen from below. What now? Should she challenge him? And perhaps feel his gnarled hands on her throat before she could make an outcry?

After some uneasy deliberation she put out a hand, soundlessly opened the refrigerator, and noisily banged it shut. At the sound, Scobie turned his head. In an instant he was on his feet, crouched like a predatory animal for a dreadful moment Deborah expected him to start upstairs toward her. Hastily, Scobie folded the foolscap sheet and stuffed it into a pocket of his ragged jacket. With a furtive backward glance he slipped out through a creaking door leading to the garden. Soon after, Deborah again heard the plaintive whine of the lawn-mower. Shaking at the knees, she retraced her steps to the front hall. When opening the door she remembered the book she had forgotten. For every nerve in her body urged her to go, to get away quickly, but she forced herself to delay long enough to find the book and snatch it up in trembling fingers. On her return to the car, Joyce was blissfully cooing to her son. Otherwise, she could not have noticed nothing how shaken Deborah was. And Deborah had decided not to tell her cousin about Scobie until later. It would only frighten and upset her for the rest of the day. No matter how much shopping remained to be done, Garmock housewife of Joyce's set, invariably broke off at eleven, for coffee and gossip at a local cafe. On entering the place, Deborah and Joyce saw Enid Sinclair beckoning to them urgently from a table in a corner. When they joined her she gave them an effusive welcome. She told them she was going to lunch with Judith Macnech. "Just the two of us. I expect it will be rather a bore," but it was obvious she hoped her close intimacy with the wife of so wealthy a man would impress them. She spoke glibly, airily, as an insider, one in the know, of the local nobility and gentry, the people whose doings were written up in the morning papers. Under her brittle talkativeness ran a current of discontent, the same yearning for things beyond her grasp that had tormented Erica Garvin. "Bill will be here any minute. He's bringing the car for me. She turned a toothy smile on Deborah. "What's this I hear about you? It's going to be such a thrill for everyone."

"What is?" asked Deborah blankly. "Why, you playing the lead in the Amateur Dramatic Society's next production. You are going

Ten Years Ago Today

Ledger & Times File

Charles Tolley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Tolley, was the guest speaker yesterday at the Murray Rotary Club.

Tolley contended that there is nothing wrong with the youth of today. "They have no hate in their hearts for one another," Tolley was one of the four Murray Scouts who attended the Scout Jamboree near Moissos, France. The trouble abroad, he said, is the distrust and hate harbored by the older folks.

Buddy Vance, 15, was shot in the leg late yesterday afternoon as the result of a hunting accident in Clark's River bottom.

Farm families in Calloway County will spend more than $804,000 for new housing in the next three to five years, according to a forecast released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. Connie E. Armstrong announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Larue, to Mr. William Newton Paris, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Paris, Sr., of Roseclaire, Ill.

Mrs. George Gatlin of Memphis, who is visiting friends in this city, has returned to Murray following a shopping trip to Paris and Nashville.

ONE OF THE BUNCH

BAU CLAIRE, Mich. — You never can tell where you'll find a pet. Charles Marquis found one with a bunch of bananas shipped to his father's grocery from Central America. He promptly put it in a glass jug and feeds it raw hamburger. The pet is a tarantula.

SETS NEW MARK

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Cargo traffic on the Mississippi River exceeded the 100 million ton mark for the first time in history in 1956. Col. William J. Jones Jr., Memphis district engineer, said: Traffic totaled 104,212,466 tons, compared with 94,041,756 tons in 1955 Jones said.

JEEP FROM THE SKY

MUNICH, Germany — The U. S. Air Force today apologized because one of its jeeps fell out of the sky. The jeep, dropped by parachute out of a transport plane during airift exercises, plopped into the back yard of an apartment house after the chute failed to open.

SWEETING INDICTMENT

MUSKEGON, Mich. — Lawrence Dell, 21, made like a street cleaner after he pleaded guilty to smashing a bottle on the street, a violation of the city's anti-litter ordinance. The judge sentenced Dell to rake a quarter of a city block.

Only rags and those used in painting are fire hazards when thrown into uncovered piles. Spontaneous ignition can result. For safety, place such rags in a galvanized steel pail.

This Is A Tough World For Misers

By ELMER C. WALZER

United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK — We're living in a tough world for misers and a rewarding one for optimists, according to Gerald M. Loeb.

Loeb, a senior partner of E. F.

Hutton & Co., one of the nation's largest wire houses talks of the "opportunity" of the stock market, but the warning is more difficult.

In his new book, "The Battle

For Investment Survival" he lectures the prospective stock market trader against the pitfalls of Wall Street.

He veers from the path of the orthodox. He doesn't believe in too much diversification, for example. He prefers a few stocks well selected.

"A profit of ten points in 100 share of stock is far more desirable from many angles than a profit of one point in 1,000 shares," he says.

This veteran of Wall Street

urges a nest egg in a savings account of U. S. government bonds. That savings account should comprise the conservative half of every moderate-income family's investment program, he says.

Then comes intense study of market operations. One just does not buy any old stock that looks cheap.

Sometimes a small trade in a high-priced stock provides a much greater return than a big investment in a low-priced stock,

he points out.

Loeb believes the best place to get a start in the right direction is a mutual fund. Eventually after long study one ought to be able to invest on his own.

"But be careful: do it prudently,"

he warns, and here's why:

No Fast Increase

"The wealth of the world does not increase fast enough to allow payment of compound interest or pyramiding of profits on existing invested capital. Every so often adjustments are made partially through bankruptcies and other scaling down of obligations and partly through currency depreciation."

He concludes that, "I know as I write that only a few who try will succeed. This is equally true of every phase of life and is certainly not an argument against trying."

And finally, "A knowledge of true investment objectives and the great difficulty in their achievement is half the battle and of great value in itself."

COAST-TO-COAST ECONOMY RUN PROVES IT—CHEVY COSTS LESS TO DRIVE!

Test run from Los Angeles to New York by the three leading low-priced cars showed Chevrolet costs less to operate, with up to 17% greater fuel economy!

When fuel and operating costs for cars are officially checked from Los Angeles to New York, that's an economy comparison! And what happened?

In certified NATA* findings, Chevy delivered up to 17% greater fuel economy, and lower total cost for the trip—proof that Chevrolet costs least to operate of the three leading low-priced cars that were tested! But that's not surprising. You expect Chevrolet engines to wring extra miles out of a gallon of gas—just as you expect finer craftsmanship in the way a Chevy is built. New Star Pushes Studio Around

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Usually it takes a full-fledged star to push a studio around, but Carroll Baker has powerful Warner Brothers "pull" over her refusal to accept a role.

Such temperamental beauties as Rita Hayworth and Betty Grable talked time after time, but finally returned to the fold on studio terms.

Not Carroll. Though she had supporting roles in only two films, "Baby Doll" and "Giant," the blue-eyed newcomer charmed the bigwigs into seeing things her way.

Back On Good Terms
Last March, Warner moguls announced that Carroll would play the title role in "The Diary of a Young Girl." When Carroll stamped her foot and said, "No," they quickly put her on suspension.

A few years ago such outrageous behavior from a slip of a girl would have meant banishment and the ruin of a promising career. A big star might get

Russian Roulette

THIS CLEVELAND policeman, Howard Rickert, 36, is dead of all things for a policeman, a "game" of Russian roulette, "played" in a roll call room of police headquarters. Rickert had been a policeman 11 years. He left three of six shots in his gun with the remark, "I've got a 50-50 chance." Other officers there thought he was kidding.

NEW AIR LINK

WASHINGTON — Miami will be linked directly to Europe for the first time by an American airline Oct. 21. President Eisenhower Thursday authorized Pan American Airways to operate a regular flight from the Florida city to Madrid. The route, will link Miami; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Madrid and Rome.

In the blooming season just ahead, gardeners will see the color and charm of three newest All-America Rose Selections, Fusilier, Gold Cup and White Knight in their own gardens for the first time.

A new booklet on rose care and culture, now being prepared by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to All-America Rose Selections, Room 3006, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 20, New York.

When the letters A.A.R.S. follow the name of a rose, it means that it has been tested for two years in trial gardens located throughout the country by All-America Rose Selections.

away with it, but not a supporting player.

How, then, did Carroll pull it off?

"I want to be careful what I say," she said prudently. "We're back on very good terms now, and I want to keep it that way."

"I didn't care for the script at all. It was pure sensationalism and romanticized a way of life that I didn't think was good."

There was no growth in it. The ending wasn't realistic either. "Casting-wise it was wrong for me, too. I couldn't be convincing as a 35-year old alcoholic. Maybe I could be a 20-year old drunk, but that's not what the part called for."

Co-Stars With Peck
Actually, Carroll is a mature 23. "I wasn't afraid of losing a career in pictures when I refused the part," the victor smiled. "I'm interested in becoming an actress, not a glamour girl. If I'd been banned from movies I'd have concentrated on the stage."

Carroll zoomed from nowhere to dizzying heights last year following her portrayal of the thumb-sucking Baby Doll. Her contract with Warner calls for one picture a year at the studio and one outside film.

Currently, she is starring with Gregory Peck and Jean Simmons in "The Big Country" — an "outside." Before she could make the picture Warner had to sanction the deal.

New Guinea Pilots Never Get Bored

By ROBERT C MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

LAE, NEW GUINEA — To get anywhere on this world's biggest island you either fly or you walk.

In either case the terrain is as rugged as Alaska, with jagged 15,000-foot peaks, and the weather is as mean as any in South America, with violent tropical storms, sudden frosts and towering thunderclouds.

New Guinea, like Alaska, has produced a breed of bush pilots with the unique skill of angling through mountain passes, slipping in and out of narrow, mile-high valleys and maintaining a regular schedule with a most impressive safety record.

Qantas, the Australian-owned airline that serves the New Guinea area, demands one basic requirement from all pilots—resourcefulness.

Here they describe resourcefulness as the time the landing gear failed to lock as a light plane was landing. The Qantas pilot casually cut a hole in the floor and jammed a steel curtain rod down as a substitute strut and made a normal landing.

Douglas DC's and Canadian-built Beavers are used by Qantas on the internal runs, while pre-war Catalinas from San Diego maintain the "beer" and bread services to the outlying islands and coastal plantations.

They like it the entire year.

The pilots on the flying boats are as familiar as rural mailmen as they deliver groceries, match sewing threads and post letters for the scattered European families who are weeks removed from civilization except by air.

Passengers are Qantas' most precious cargo, but the money is made on the freight. In 1932 when gold was discovered in the Bulolo Valley, more freight was carried in one month in New Guinea than by all the rest of the world's airlines combined for the entire year.

Today Qantas will haul anything from needles to prefabricated houses, and moves an average of more than a month in, out and around New Guinea. Recently an entire tea processing plant was flown in to the interior piece by piece to be assembled and put into operation.

The majority of Qantas' senior New Guinea pilots could qualify for international flights, but they prefer to fly here. As veteran pilot Tom Howse explained it:

"In New Guinea you never get bored. Each flight has a variety of interesting situations, both inside and outside the aircraft, that seldom crop up on one of the overseas routes."

AGENTS UNMUFFLED
GREENVILLE, N. C. — A muffler placed on a still by an ingenious moonshiner failed this week to keep away federal and county agents. They found a special soundproof box over the gasoline motor supplying water for the still. The box apparently was designed to muffle the sound of the engine. Agents destroyed 17 mash boxes with a capacity of 400 gallons each.

West Germany Plans Civilian Protection

By RUDY WECHMAR
United Press Staff Correspondent
BONN — West Germany, front-line territory of any future, world conflict, has begun planning for the protection of her 50,000,000 civilian population against atomic attack.

Despite its exposed position on the explosive Iron Curtain bordering the Bonn Republic so far from the sea, the government is constructing a single shelter or slit trench for civilians.

But under pressure from worried public opinion and nagging by the population Socialists, the interior ministry has begun work on a double-barreled emergency civil defense program.

It combines both construction of A-bomb-proof shelters and mass evacuation of civil populations. Because of its geographical location, the republic's defense planners know that it not only would be fought over in a future war but its vital industrial centers would become the target for tactical atomic weapons as well. In particular the smoky Ruhr, industrial heartland of western Europe, and great shipping centers such as Hamburg would be certain to be singled out for attack.

10 Billion
West German experts estimate it would cost a minimum of 10 billion dollars to provide atom-proof shelters for all West German population. This would cover cost of construction of concrete walls up to 25 inches thick to withstand atomic blast.

Retired Gen. Erich Hampe, former president of the West German Civil Defense Institute, asserted this would be possible.

Hampe has proposed constructing such shelters in existing buildings as well as special underground bunkers and tunnels.

Plans being drawn up by ministry of interior experts provide both for construction of shelters in existing houses and buildings as well as special subterranean refuges.

Under these plans West Germany would be divided into regions of varying degrees of danger of atomic attack. The shelters would be constructed first in those areas considered most threatened.

Government experts also are working on plans for mass evacuation of the civilian population. In a country such as the Bonn Republic, this would be particularly difficult.

Two Stages
The evacuation would have to be carried out without hampering troop movements, and experts believe it, probably would get underway during the so-called "strategic warning period" before a major conflict actually began.

Officials are working on plans for two separate stages of evacuation.

The first stage would provide for moving civilian populations out of endangered city centers and congested areas into suburban and outlying districts up to about 12 miles outside main population areas. The second stage would call for evacuation of whole families, and billeting them in country districts 20 to 40 miles outside cities.

Minister of Interior Gerhard Schroeder announced recently that several hundred thousand volunteer workers of the Red Cross, the Federal Civil Defense Association and similar organizations would be responsible for handling any evacuation.

The government still has not announced where it expects to obtain the funds to finance such a program.

In 1955 the government announced a $286,000,000 three-year plan for civil defense. However, the opposition Socialists have pointed out that only about one-sixth of this sum has been spent or made available for civil defense so far.

A Socialist spokesman charged that the government has "seriously neglected" the civil defense while hurrying to build up the new West German armed forces.

NIGHT CALLS

OMAHA — Many night calls for doctors are the result of either fright or lack of information, according to a survey of doctors at Creighton University's medical school. The doctors said many calls are requested merely for the convenience of the patient, while others are made by neurotics or those with neurotic tendencies.

63 SPEEDS

SALEM, N. Y. — Fourteen-year-old Bob Blodgett's homemade automobile has 63 speeds—56 forward and 7 in reverse. Bob paid $10 for the parts at a used car lot and devoted eight months to assembling them into a strange contraption that will go 50 m.p.h. on the highway and also serves as a tractor around his father's farm.

NORWAY'S 85-year-old King Haakon (upper) is near death in Oslo. He has been in poor health since 1955. Crown Prince Olav (lower) would succeed him on the throne. (International)
